This easy-to-carry-along book is a compilation of Dr. Combs' own personal, intimate thoughts & observations on dealing with Alzheimers Disease. The author creatively uses classical quotations to reflect & support her own inner thoughts. She traces her 45-year odyssey with this disease, beginning with her maternal grandmother who had Alzheimers, to presently dealing with her own mother who is suffering from the disease. Some entries are as long as several paragraphs, others are only a sentence. These poignant, insightful thoughts deal with the disease & personal descriptions of the symptoms. The author expresses intimate feelings of loss, hope, fear & change & offers some practical solutions for everyday situations, such as the "nursing home" decision. The information packed into this small volume will prove to be an especially meaningful companion to families & friends of Alzheimers victims. This book is available from Combs Publishing, 313 Beechcliff Court, Winston-Salem, NC 27104.
